

FROM HERE TO THERE: Two Discussions on Transportation in Your Neighborhood

Join Seattle City Councilmember Mike O'Brien in two community discussions co-hosted by Pacific Science Center, Seattle City Council and Streets For All Seattle. These discussions are part of a series of events that gather community input on different aspects of the City Council's priority issue of carbon neutrality.

Tuesday, March 29, 6-8:30 p.m. – Lake City

Meadowbrook Community Center
10517 35th Avenue NE, Seattle

Featured Speakers:

- Ref Lindmark, King County Metro Transit
- Kari Watkins, OneBusAway & UW Civil Engineering
- Notable community representative

Tuesday, April 12, 6-8:30 p.m. – Central District

Seattle Vocational Institute
2120 S. Jackson St., Seattle

Featured Speakers:

- Mark Hallenbeck, Director of the Washington State Transportation Center at UW (TRAC)
- Jennifer Wieland, Seattle Dept. of Transportation
- Transit blogger Carla Saulter, a.k.a. "Bus Chick"

Will there be food?

Yes! A light dinner and refreshments will be provided for forum attendees.

Can I bring my kids?

Educational activities will be provided by Pacific Science Center's Science On Wheels for children ages 5 and up whose caregivers attend the forum.

How can I RSVP?

This event is free but space is limited—reservations are suggested. Reserve your spot today by calling (206) 443-2896 or visiting pacificsciencecenter.org/community-science-forums.

How can I request interpretation?

Email esther.handy@seattle.gov or call (206) 684-8800.

streets
FOR ALL SEATTLE

Located under the arches, near the Space Needle pacificsciencecenter.org